► Creative Play & Theater Games

These workshops will thoroughly involve each student in acting games and improvisations that are guaranteed fun! Although some games can be quite active, this workshop is more about being silly and using our imaginations to create different realities.

All games involve some variety of skill building techniques. Children will learn important theatrical concepts and gain a greater foundation for communication and freedom of expression.

Workshops begin with physical and vocal warm-ups and a variety of circle games (for developing focus, listening skills, improving memory). After a short break students will move on to the creative performance aspect, learning how to give characters life, using props and improvisations- possibly evolving into spontaneous skits and scenes!
